QUALITY OF LIFE

BASELINE STANDARDS

4TH EDITION

November 1999 Final Draft

QUALITY OF SERVICE
AVAILABILITY OF SERVICE
ACCESSIBILITY OF SERVICE

Foreword

Quality of Life (QOL) in United States Army Europe (USAREUR) has a direct impact on readiness and mission accomplishment. To be successful, our everyday living and working QOL in USAREUR must be a readiness enhancer, and not distracter.

The 36 QOL standards in this book describe the minimum level of support customers can expect to receive in USAREUR communities. QOL managers should use these standards as the baseline criteria for measuring and evaluating programs and services being offered at Army installations in Europe. By comparing what exists in a specific QOL program to these USAREUR approved standards, specific areas in which the QOL program needs to develop and improve can be pinpointed; these, in turn, become the base for the development of goals and objectives, both long-range and immediate.

Commanders at all levels should support the achievement of these standards and may supplement this level of support in order to best meet their needs. It is also important to avoid diverting funds from these important QOL programs to fund other emergent requirements.

In this 4th edition of the QOL standards book, we have added staffing criteria and locations of facilities, while updating the descriptions of accessibility (walking or driving times) and availability (hours of operation) and updating and expanding definitions of service quality.

Quality of Life is important to all of us in USAREUR and I encourage you continuously strive to achieve these standards that outline the minimum service our soldiers and families can expect in USAREUR within our available resources.
